TAKE PART IN RESEARCH

RESEARCH WILL CHANGE THE FUTURE

Help BEAT Heart Disease is part of Research for the Future, an NHS-supported campaign that helps people find out about and take part in health and care research. Taking part in research helps to discover new ways to prevent, diagnose and manage heart disease.

If you have had a heart attack or live with a heart condition such as heart failure, angina or atrial fibrillation, register now to find out about research taking place in your area.

Registering to take part means we will inform you about research opportunities. The process is easy, we will ask you for your contact details as well as some questions about your general health and heart condition. Everyone over the age of 18 is welcome to register.

There are lots of different types of research you can take part in, including questionnaires, joining discussion groups or taking part in trials to find new treatments. It is always your decision whether to take part in anything we tell you about. If at any time you change your mind and no longer want to take part, let us know.

Any information you provide is stored on a secure NHS database. It will never be shared with anyone else. For further details about how we protect your personal information, see our privacy notice www.researchforthefuture.org/privacy
